

Vince,

I have received a call from MIT asking if Enron would be interested in sponsoring a Financial Engineering Pro-Seminar.

This means that Enron would propose a problem that would have its solution developed by students in the Financial Engineering Track. These students would present the findings in the end.

I think that Enron has already sponsored a Financial Engineering Pro-Seminar. I remember something about Real Options at the time I was at school.

Please, let me know if Enron has the interest, specifically the Research.

Talking here at the Weather Desk, Mark Tawney expressed interest. If you agree, we (the Weather Desk) could co-sponsor this Pro-Seminar with the Research. The idea, then, would be to propose a problem connected to Weather Trading.

Please, give me your thoughts about this issue.

Thanks,

Claudio
