

I've just been informed that I'm being switched to Outlook tonite, which means, I've been told, that I may not have access to my email later this evening. If that holds, I'll email the draft to everyone first thing in the morning (hopefully by 8 AM Houston) time. Otherwise, it'll land in your email later tonite. My apologies for all the machinations.

Best,
Jeff