

Dear Mr. Lay,

You should hire me to be part of the strategic planning/reorganization team addressing Enron's current situation. Whether your goal is to salvage the company or to attract buyers, I can add value to this effort.

My qualifications are the following. I have been a "Big 5" consultant. I can identify recommendations whose implementation was never considered during analysis. I have worked in a variety of industries and learned the ropes quickly for each. I have a graduate degree, but I worked in the real world while I earned it. I am not a "yes" man and don't believe in sucking up. I make decisions and am accountable for my actions.

Your company will be remembered as an MBA case study. Some ambitious professor is probably penning the initial draft as I send this e-mail. But the ending for that case study has not been written, and I'd like to have a hand in determining the outcome. I've attached my resume and respectfully request an interview. You can reach me at (972) 979-6609 to schedule a meeting.

Thanks for your time,
Bianca Hayes

Get your FREE download of MSN Explorer at <http://explorer.msn.com/intl.asp>

- BHayesBA.doc